So wrote the apostle of old as he re cognized the divine principle that charity springs from Love, and the more comprehensive the one, the broader the other. Pharasaical display is not that gift as a class are too much disposed to shield which covers "a multitude of sins," and support the mediums who are practising the deception. The American Spiritualist and The Crucible, however, are honorable exceptions to this remark. Lord while serving the Devil. It is not reward the giver, and leave the poor and destitute at home to suffer on unaided and uncared for. It is not charity to give a penny to the street mendicant, of whom nothing is known, while we haggle with a poor man, out of employment, for a miserable dime. It is not charity to beat down a poor seamstress to starvation price; to let her sit in her wet clothes sewing all day; to deduct from her pitiful remuneration if the storm delays her prompt arrival. It is not charity to the stirlly and the poor and destitute at home to suffer on unaided have seen this same Harry Bastian when have seen this same have seen this s her prompt arrival. It is not charity to itualists connot but be accepted as settaunt her with her dependent situation. It is not charity to turn a man who is out of work into the street, with his poor family, because he cannot pay his rent. It is not charity to exact the utmost fartling from the widow and orphan. It is not charity to give with a supercilious air and patronage, as if God had made the rich and of different blood from the poor recipient, whose only crime is poverty.

Paradoxical as it may seem it is never theless true that most of us are never as happy as when we are miserable. Surrounded and bathed in the warm sunshine of prosperity we sigh for the somber gloom of adversity. Continually borrowing trouble, a large proportion of our lives is spent in anxious and useless forebodings concerning the future—either our own or that of some of our friends. Present joys and present bless—some of the dispatch, received at Dayton, on tuesday, by John M. Sprigg, Esq., from Cumberland, Maryland, announced the death, at that place, of Mrs. Vallandigham, wife of the late Clement L. Vallandigham, of that city. Mrs. Vallandigham was stricken down by the death of her husband, and has been suffering severely ever since from mental and physical prostration. Mrs. Vallandigham, of the city. Mrs. Valla friends. Present joys and present blessings slip by, and half their sweet flavor is lost to us through lack of that faith which leaves all to Him, who provides so mercifully for even the tiniest insect in the sunbeams. Hard indeed it is to learn that simple trust in Omnipotence which the little children teach us, every day by their confiding faith in us. We who are so mutable, so faulty, so irritable, so McMahon of Baltimore.

The excitement in the German part of pitifal, so loving, so forgiving! Why cannot we, slipping our hands in His each day, walk trustingly over that day's appointed path, thorny or flowery, crooked or straight, knowing that evening will bring us sleep, and peace, and home. Why toil distrustfully to gather up manna for days yet to come, when as an evasion of the law, the proprietors every dewy morning shall find it freshly sprinkled at our feet? But the lesson will never be learned until our feet are close to the shores of the fathomiess river and the gloom of the valley of the and the gloom of the valley of the Shadow of Death is gathering around us. Then, when we draw nearer and nearer to the great All-Father how wonderful seems our peevish, fretful repinings—now strange our distrust, our care and our anxiety. Work was continued yesterday, and up to midnight only five had been that the alliance between France and Russia has been in process of negotiation since a period prior to the declaration of war against Germany in 1870. The initiatory steps were taken by Napoleon, and continued by the Empress Regent through General Fleury, but further negotiations remained in abeyance after her flight from Paris in September. The new French Minister at St. Petersburg, General Le Flo, is credited with the completion of the negotiations.

states the contest will most probably be close and exciting. The New York elections will command little general interest, as only the minor State officers and a portion of the Legislature are to be chosen. For four years this State has gone Democratic, but recent events may make a change in this vote, and certainly the exposures that have been made of the frauds practiced by the Tammany Democracy would lead all to hope for such a change, unless, perhaps, it might be those few fanatics who go for "Party right or wrong." In Massachusetts the contest promises to be an exciting one, at least until the Republican Convention shall have decided the question of gubernatorial candidacy. In Wissonrein also

This gradual but heavy loss of property is very discouraging to the people. They are becoming desperate, and seeing the determination of Mexican officials to repeople, they talk now quite freely of or-ganizing themselves into armed bands and crossing into Mexico to recover their stolen property. This feeling is universal on the frontier since the recent developments with regard to the removal of the Kiekapoo Indians. General Reynolds adds: "It is believed that these depresed these properties of the control lepredations can be effectually and per-
